JOIN OUR CHRISTMAS BANKING CLUB

PLAN OF THE CLUB

The Plan is Simple: You begin with a certain amount, 1c, 2c, 5c, or 10c, and increase your deposit the same amount each week. Or, you can begin with a certain amount, 50c, $1.00, $5.00, or any amount, and deposit the same amount each week.

HOW TO JOIN

Look at the different Clubs in table below and select the one you wish to join, the 1c, 2c, 5c, 10c, 50c, $1.00, $5.00, or any of the clubs; then come to our Bank with the first weekly payment. We will make you a member of the Club and give you a Christmas Banking Club Book showing the Club you have joined.

EVERYBODY CAN JOIN Nobody Is Barred Out

Everybody should join.

Men and Women, Boys and Girls, Little Children, the Baby—all should join.

You can take out memberships for your family or friends.

An employer can take out memberships for his employes.

We will welcome everyone.

HAVE MONEY
1c, 2c, 5c, 10c
will start you in our
CHRISTMAS BANKING CLUB
Come in, let us show you how in 50 weeks you will have
$12.75 $25.50 $63.75 or $127.50

Who Gets the Money You Earn?

It isn't the money you make that counts, but what you SAVE. If one man makes $10,000 a year and spends it all, he hasn't got as much as the man who only makes $5,000 a year and saves and Banks $1,000.

Nor is it the big things you buy that takes your money; it is the small amounts that you let slip through your fingers that eat up your earnings. Why not plug up those leaks and join our Christmas Banking Club? You'll be lots happier in watching your balance grow and your money will be safe from fire, burglars or your own temptations to spend it.

You Can Begin with the Largest Payment First and Decrease Your Payments Each Week

5c OR 10c
Will start you in our
Christmas Banking Club
next Xmas you get
$63.75 or $127.50

The Reason for the Club

To provide a way for those of moderate and even small means to bank their money.

To teach the "saving habit" to those who have never learned it.

To give young folks a practical education about money—by showing them that if they give up the little things they want today, they can get the big things later.

To give all a Bank connection and show you how our Bank can be of service to them.

FOR OLD AND YOUNG

The sensible thing for all parents to do is to join our Christmas Banking Club and also put every member of the family into it. This will teach them the value of money and how to bank and HAVE MONEY. Maybe this little start you give them may some day set them up in business or buy them a home.

How often have you wished that your parents had taught you early the value of banking your money. You would be well-off today. Don't make the same mistake with YOUR children.

HOW YOU CAN GET $63.75

The way to have $63.75 in fifty weeks is to join our 5c Club and deposit only a nickel the first week; the second week you deposit 10c; the third week you deposit 15c. Then you increase your deposit 5c each week for 50 weeks. Or, you can make the largest payment the first week and decrease 5c every week.

HOW YOU CAN GET $127.50

The way to have $127.50 in fifty weeks is to join our 10c Club and deposit only a dime the first week; the second week you deposit 20c; the third week you deposit 30c. Then you increase your deposit 10c each week for 50 weeks. Or, you can make the largest payment the first week and decrease 10c each week.

OUR SATURDAY NIGHT

It takes so little to make us glad,
Just a cheering clasp of a friendly hand,
Just a word from one who can understand;
And we wish the task we long had planned,
And we lose the doubt and the fear we had—
So little it takes to make us glad!

Have you ever noticed how little it takes to make a child happy? How quickly the little heart responds to the slightest attention and how the smile of joy dimples the cheek and lights up the face, dispelling the tears which sparkle like dew drops in the morning sun. The child's life is on the surface and the play of emotions on the face is the index of joy or sorrow, which is easy to understand.

The experiences of life, which have crowded us so closely during the past few years, impress the old-time thought that we are but children of larger growth. The toy which prompted the smile and dried the tear, back in the cradle age is of the past, but the same emotion responds to the word of kindness and the touch of sympathy and the fountain of perpetual youth fulfills its mission, clear down to the edge of time, as God intended it should.

The one thought which comes to all of us with tremendous force is the fact that the American army which had so much to do with winning the decisive victory in France, was an army of boys, many of them in their teens. Every group of pictures is a group of boyish faces with no down on their cheeks—just a happy-go-lucky smile, yet developed over night in all that makes for true manhood. These were our boys, simply children of larger growth but playing manfully their part and winning the well-earned title of "heroes."

Edna Ferber tells the story of one of these boys in the current issue of "Carry On," which is well worth reading. "Chet" Ball was a young lineman in Chicago, two years ago, and one morning, clinging to the cross-bar of a pole, he espied an Irish lassie, tripping by on her way to work. A voice startled her from overhead with a "Hoo-hoo! Hello Sweetheart! Wait for me and I'll be down!"

Stasia Rourke stopped and looking up with crimson face said: "You big coward, you! If you had your foot on the ground you wouldn't dast call to a decent girl like that. If you were down here I would slap the face of you!" There was a racket on the pole and in less than no time "Chet" stood before her, one ruddy cheek presented to her astonished gaze. "Hello Sweetheart!" he said, and waited.

Stasia hesitated just a second. All the Irish heart in her was melting at the boyish impudence of the man before her. Then, with tears in her eyes, she slapped his cheek and fled. Next morning when Stasia went by to work, "Chet" was standing at the foot of the pole waiting.

They were to have been married that next June, but that next June, "Chet" Ball, perched perilously on the branch of a tree in a small wooded knoll somewhere in France, was one reason why the American artillery was getting such deadly aim on the enemy. Then quite suddenly the Germans got the range. The tree came down with a crash and "Chet" lay there among its tender foliage.

His shattered leg was mended, by one of those miracles of modern war surgery, though he never again would dig his spurred heels into the pine of a company pole. But the other thing—they put it down under the broad general head of shell shock. In the lovely English garden, at the hospital, they set him to weaving and painting, as a means of soothing his shattered nerves. He had made everything from pottery jars to bead chains, from baskets to rugs. Slowly the tortured nerves healed. But the doctors, when they stopped at "Chet's" cot, talked always of "the memory center." "Chet" seemed satisfied to go on placidly painting toys, or weaving chains with his great square-tipped fingers—the fingers that had wielded the plecters so deftly in his pole-climbing days.

"It's just something that only luck or an accident can mend," said the nerve specialist. "Time may do it, but I doubt it. Sometimes just a word—the right word—will set the thing in motion again. Does he get any letters?"

"His girl writes to him. Fine letters. But she don't know yet about—about this. I've written his letters for him. She knows now that his leg is healed and she wonders—"

That had been a month ago. Today Miss Kate slit the envelope postmarked Chicago. "Chet" was fingering the yellow wooden chicken—which he had just painted—pride in his eyes. In Miss Kate's eyes there was a troubled, baffled look, as she began to read:

"Chet, dear it's raining in Chicago. And you know when it rains in Chicago it's wetter, and muddier, and rainier than any place in the world. Except, maybe this Flanders we're reading so much about. They say for rain and mud that place takes the prize.

"I don't know what I'm going on about rain and mud for, Chet darling, when it's you I'm thinking of. Nothing else and nobody else. Chet, I got a funny feeling there's something you're keeping back from me. You're hurt worse than just the leg. Boy, dear, don't you know it won't make any difference with me how you look, or feel or anything. I don't care how bad you're smashed up. I'd rather have you without any features at all than any other man with two sets. Whatever's happened to the outside of you, they can't change your insides. And you're the same man that called out to me, that day, 'Hoo-hoo! Hello, sweetheart!' and when I gave you a piece of my mind climbed down off the pole, and put your face up to be slapped, God bless the boy in you—"

A sharp little sound from him. Miss Kate looked up, quickly. "Chet" Ball was staring at the beady-eyed yellow chicken in his hand.

"What's this thing?" he demanded in a strange voice.

Miss Kate answered him very quietly, trying to keep her own voice easy and natural. "That's a toy chicken, cut out of wood."

"What'm I doin' with it?"

"You've just finished painting it."

"Chet" Ball held it in his great hand and stared at it for a brief moment, struggling between anger and amusement. And between anger and amusement he put it down on the table none too gently and stood up, yawning a little.

"That's a hell of a job for a he-man!" Then, in utter contradiction: "Oh, beggin' your pardon! That was fierce! I didn't—"

But there was nothing shocked about the expression on Miss Kate's face. She was registering joy—pure joy.

"Chet" Ball is only one of an army of boys who went away from us with rosy cheeks and laughing eyes, and who are coming back to us maimed and crippled, wrecks of young manhood, before the race of life has fairly begun. One of the grave problems which confronts us, not only as a nation, but as individuals, is our attitude toward these heroes whose lives are handicapped on our account. They do not want pity, they do not want sympathy, but they do want and they must have a helping hand, not in the way of charity, but through some occupation which shall render them self-supporting, and self-respecting citizens.

It is a trite old saying that the best part of our body is above the neck. Herbert Kaufman asks the question: How much of his body does a man need to earn a living in this year of wheels and wires? For instance, legs are not requisite at the cigar bench.

Expert typists never look at the keys. The watchful eyes of a supervisor is not hampered by the absence of arms. If the head stays intact, a missing feature or so isn't necessarily a sentence to dependence. Common sense is a general servant and with a little coaching can learn to substitute for any of the missing five. Then he concludes by saying that France and England have demonstrated that about the only helpless cripple is a shirker.

Our allies long since established schools for teaching all sorts of work and trades to this new population which war has created, and results have proved most satisfactory. Our own country is already engaging in the same work, and it is entitled to every encouragement, but more than this is needed, and an effort is being made to induce American employers to take back their old men, and if wounded find something for them to do that will make them independent. This is philanthropy carried out, and it means everything to the boys who will carry the scars of war for a lifetime.

We think today that we will never forget the boys who suffered in the trenches of France, and who offered their lives so freely for us, but we will, because we are the most impulsive people as well as the most generous, that God ever made. When a tornado strikes us we want to pay for the damage the next day and then forget it, and we usually do.

At the close of the Civil war, Henry K. Lunk, came marching back to his old home at Jefferson Junction, Iowa. He was the town's hero because one arm was off at the shoulder, and the other at the elbow, and the people couldn't do enough for him. They loaded him up with food enough to last him all summer, and gave him a fat purse to see him through the winter. Then the town forgot him and Henry spent much of his time on the bench in front of the old hotel, watching the procession go by. In the world, but not of it. He had done his share in one of the biggest things in the world, which is war, but he could not do his share in the other biggest thing—which is peace.

Henry K. Lunk was only one of an army of Civil war veterans who came home maimed and crippled, and whose lives of heroism and sacrifice were forgotten. The meager pension was often a humiliation, and they longed to find a place in the ranks of workers, and enjoy again that greatest of all blessings— independence. The ability to earn an honest dollar, to men who are handicapped by blindness, or from any other cause, is the greatest blessing that can come to any life, and the best philanthropists, which the world produces, are the men and women who furnish the necessary equipment.

The old world is crowded with war derelicts who will become drifters on the tide of time, unless helpful, intelligent hands are stretched out to help them to help themselves. Our own land will have a smaller quota, but the same thoughtful attention is needed, and in the work of reconstruction this is one of the most important problems. Peace brings with it great responsibilities and as we drift away from war and forget it, let us not forget the boys in our midst who fought for us, and who are entitled to more than sympathy in their struggle to regain a foothold.

ALONE WHEN ARRESTED

ALONE WHEN ASSESSED

J. P. McLaughlin of Elroy arrested last evening for being drunk stood before Judge Maxfield in the municipal court this morning and for ten minutes listened to one of the most severe lectures ever given to a man in the court.

McLaughlin, who stated he came home from Elroy to get a job and forgot to look for a job and got drunk, was the target for some severe criticism from Judge Maxfield. The prisoner, a man of thirty-five years, admitted that he had been arrested before for getting drunk but it was hard for the judge to impress on his mind that he was on the wrong road.

He was given a fine of ten dollars and costs or fifteen days.

PARKER SAFETY-SEALED FOUNTAIN PEN

Keep the Home Fires Burning

IN your list of what you give him for Christmas, include a Parker Safety-Sealed Fountain Pen. He will appreciate it.

The Parker is the favorite of the boys in khaki and blue—hundreds of thousands of them prefer it because of certain features which they will tell you cannot be found in any other pen.

The Parker is SAFETY SEALED—Injury to self-filling mechanism automatically changes it to a non-leak filter with no chance of leakage. It has no opening in the wall of barrel for pressure bars, levers, or projections.

NOTE: Should an accident occur to any Parker Pen, no matter when purchased if the pen is owned by any man wearing the uniform of a U. S. soldier, sailor or flyer, it will be repaired by us free of charge.

The same features that have made the Parker the favorite of Uncle Sam's fighters also make it the ideal gift for the folks at home.

BENEFIT TONIGHT FOR YOUNG WOMEN'S BAND

A dozen young women who have devoted their time and talent to the entertainment of soldiers in various camps throughout the country, are stranded in Janesville. They are members of an organization known as "America's Lady Military Band." They gave a concert here, Thursday night, but because of inclement weather, the attendance was light.

These young women have made sacrifices to give cheer to the boys who are in military camps. They come from various states and some are far from home without funds.

Their predicament was discovered this morning, and arrangements have been made to give a benefit concert tonight at the Myers theatre. Peter Myers has donated the use of the theatre and the money taken in at the door will be turned over to the young women and will be used to send them to their homes.

As a musical organization, they rank high and are capable of giving an excellent concert. They have toured the United States, and have received praise in each city they have appeared. Recently, they have been compelled to make long jumps and have had to contend with bad weather.

During the recent war, the band volunteered in various services and helped put the drive over the top. Every cent of the money which is taken in at the concert tonight, will be turned over to the young women.

Resume of Moving Picture Programs Of Last Week

(By Mrs. Abbie Holmes.)

Slides representing "The Greatest Mother in the World," the Red Cross, are being shown at the local theatre houses this week in preparation for the national week of service next week. Rather unique war pictures were shown at the Myers on Thursday in connection with the Ladies' Military Band. They were pictures of the band taken anywhere in the war zone during the early days of the war, and so were entirely unadorned and true to life. The pitiful defense put up by the brave Belgians against their German invaders, the hasty summoning of the French and other details, as well as the first entrance of American troops into Paris, were shown. The music contributed by the band was spirited and pleasing.

At the Apollo, "Cleopatra" held the screen during the first part of the week. This magnificent production gives a wonderful showing of the scenery of the time, with its palaces, temples, and swimming pools of the Nile country. Theda Bara does very effective acting in her love scenes with Anthony, and the whole cast are faultless in their parts. Barbare costume, with a wealth of splendid accessories, help to round out an elaborate production. Very good, secure, and the first thing that strikes the eye is the fine showing of the Nile country.

The Majestic had "The Diplomats" for its Sunday picture. It was supposed to show the life of the Vandeke, as represented by Williams, went into the politics of a petty island and cleaned them out. Also the German agent of the island, who was trying to have mines

NOTED SALVATION ARMY LEADER HERE

The Salvation army of Janesville is going to be favored with a distinguished visitor Monday evening. He will conduct a service in the Army Hall, 101 N. Main St. commencing at 8 p. m. Col. S. Marshall is a very able speaker and of great platform ability. He is in charge of the Salvation Army work in what is known as the north east province, comprising North and South Dakota, Minnesota, Wisconsin and Northern Michigan, and he has been in Chicago at the Army's Great Staff Council, and will visit our city on his way home. The public are cordially invited to come and hear him. The regular services will be held in the Army over Sunday.

LOCAL POLICE ASKED TO LOOK FOR ROBBERS

At the request of Chief Janssen of the Milwaukee Police force, Chief (Champion) last evening conducted a thorough search of the hotels and other public places in search of the bandits who shot a guard of the International Harvester Company in Milwaukee Friday night and escaped with $25,000.

A telephone call was received by Chief Champion about eight-thirty Friday evening informing him of the ring robbery and asking him to make a thorough search of the hotels and railroad stations as it was thought that the robbers headed toward this section of the state.

Chief Champion conducted the search but was unable to locate any whereabouts of the men. He had the roads leading into the city watched, but the men failed to make their appearance.

WISCONSIN MAN AT HEAD OF ORGANIZATION

Chicago, Dec. 14.—At the closing session of the fourth annual meeting of the American Association of Highway Officials, R. Hirst, State Engineer of Wisconsin, was elected president of that organization. This association, as its name implies, is made up of the highway officials of all the states in the union, and is the foremost highway organization in this country.

Arthur R. Hirst, State Highway Engineer of Wisconsin is the oldest highway engineer in continuous service of any highway engineer in a state highway department in America. He has occupied the position of State Highway Engineer since 1911, when the State Highway Department was created. Previous to that he was associated with the Wisconsin Geological and Natural History Survey. In highway engineering circles Mr. Hirst is regarded as one of the foremost in his profession.

A. R. Hirst was born on Long Island New York, May 31, 1881, and, as will be seen, he is in the prime of life. He was educated at the common, graded, and high schools of Cambridge, Maryland, and graduated with the degree of Bachelor of Science from the Civil Engineering Department of Maryland Agricultural College in 1902. He then went to the University of Pennsylvania, where he was associated with the engineering corps of the Pennsylvania Railroad. In 1903, he took up highway work with the Maryland Highway Commission, and from 1904 to 1907 was Engineer of Survey and Plans for that body. He then came west and associated himself with the Illinois Highway Commission, where he was Engineer of Construction. In the following year, he came to Wisconsin as Highway Engineer of the Wisconsin Geological and Natural History Survey. In 1911, with the creation of the State Highway Department, he became State Highway Engineer. As president of the American Association of Public Highway Officials he is at the head of the foremost group of highway engineers in America, a remarkable tribute for a man of his years.

"The ROMANCE of TARZAN"

The concluding chapters of "TA RZAN of the Apes" From the book by EDGAR RICE BURROUGHS.

THE CATAclysmic ROMANCE OF PRIMEVAL MAN AND MODERN MAID MIDST JUNGLE WILDS AND PALACES

This is the REAL superpicture you have been waiting months to see, the mighty Cinema Drama, picturing with massive and overpowering effect the strange adventures that befall Tarzan, primitive nobleman, and White King of an African ape-tribe, who follows the beautiful white girl he has rescued from death in the African jungles to her home amid the regal magnificence of civilized society where love leads him into paths more dangerous than those he trod in his native wilds.

FILLED WITH SCENES OF WEIRD POWER THAT WILL HAUNT YOU FOR DAYS

You will see Tarzan rescue a white man from the jaws of an infuriated lion, and dispatch the beast before your eyes with a sheath-knife.

You will see Tarzan fight six average cannibals at one time, and dispose of them with his naked hands. You will see Tarzan himself rescued from death by a gigantic wild elephant—his faithful friend, Tantor. And you will also see Tarzan fight the greatest battle of his career in a crowded ballroom to protect the honor of the beautiful American girl for whose love he has left the jungle.

You will see Tarzan lured to the apartments of a beautiful adventuress who both loves him and seeks his ruin. You will see his raging fight for life with her accomplices. You will see Tarzan's repudiation by his former jungle companions when he returns to his old haunts.

You will see the beautiful ending—which is best of all.

SPECIAL PRICES: We are playing this conclusion of "Tarzan of the Apes" at special prices: Matinees and Evenings: Children, 11c; Matinees and Evenings, Adults, 22c.

ON THE SPUR of the MOMENT

ROY K. MOULTON

The pirate of old. Went forth for the gold. And sailed on a perilous deck. By the skull and cross-bones. And wielded Davy Jones. He got it and came by the peck. The old pirate chief. Who never would stop to disguise. In the open he fought. When it chanced that he could. Of feeling the plank or the price. The pirate today. Has a different way. He doesn't fare forth on the sea. With an axe or a knife. To fight for his life. A smooth proposition is he. He knows in advance. He takes never a chance. Of feeling the plank or the rack. For legal advice. He pays a long price. His victims can never fight back. He pirates in silk. And in food and in milk. And greets all protest with a sneer. He is safe in his bunk. With his ill-gotten junk. This snug, sanctified profiteer. The pirate of old. If the truth should be told, Was an honest old thief in a way. And a sincere intent. When compared with the pirate today.

Happy indeed are the relatives of the girl who wins an army cook for a husband.

The movies have solved the problem of perpetual emotion.

News Notes from Movieland

BY DAISY DEAN

Just take a look at this picture of May Allison, which shows her beautiful golden curls. Of course, you can't tell it is golden, but I'll tell you that. You must admit that it is golden and quite a nice picture. The picture which made us print a picture showing May with her very best curls is the fact that we will not be able to print another like it for some time.

You know May has gone and done it. She took a great big pair of scissors and bobbed her hair. Just why she did this, I cannot say, but I think it is a very good reason. It has not been made public, but all suspicious point to the fact that it was because of her next picture, "Kate of Kentucky," in the name of it and it is reported that May wear a wig and so this enthusiastic young person decided to have her hair at short hair under the camouflage of duty.

At any rate, there never was anything more becoming than her new abbreviated coiffure.

WHITEWATER NORMAL STUDENTS IN CITY

Forty Members of Student Body Visit Janesville on Annual Excursion—Visit Local Industrial Plants.

About forty students of the Whitewater Normal school arrived in Janesville at ten-fifteen o'clock this morning on their annual excursion. The students were met at the depot by Lee J. Parker of the Chamber of Commerce, and they were taken to the Lewis Knitting and Gossard companies this morning. They were shown through both plants and all of the students displayed great interest in the factories.

A luncheon was held for them at twelve-fifteen o'clock at the Myers hotel, after which several informal talks were given by the students. The afternoon was spent in visiting the Parker Pen company and the Gossard Printing company. Later the students made a trip to Spring Brook where they visited the new factory being erected for the General Motors Corporation.

They are in charge of Prof. Lashop and enjoyed their visit to the city amazingly. At the Gossard factory they were divided into two groups so as not to cause congestion, and one group at the Spring Brook factory and the other at the Lewis Knitting and Gossard companies. The party of about thirty students and their chaperones, who were met at the depot by Lee J. Parker of the Chamber of Commerce, and they were taken to the Lewis Knitting and Gossard companies this morning. They were shown through both plants and all of the students displayed great interest in the factories.

Mr. Turner was courteous and kind in explaining the processes of the cutting and being done on the top floor by the electric machines, so the inspecting and packing being completed on the main floor. The cheerful exterior of the building, with its rows of little evergreen trees in the plant boxes also came in for commendation.

HOOK SELF TO CAR STRAP

subject of jest and of serious protest, and at the same time the railway officials have been earnestly struggling with the problem of affording him some relief, for it hurts the railway magnates as much as it does their patrons, only in a different place.

An inventor of West Hoboken, with an inspiration born of necessity, has come to the aid of his fellow sufferers with a newly designed wristlet, which he proposes to sell to every member of this great army. Equipped with one of these new inventions, the strap car rider will upon entering a seatless car immediately hook himself to one of the dangling straps somewhat after the manner of a little garment on the peg of a clothes tree. His hand is relieved of the tiresome work of clasping the strap, and if he desires he may make use of the other hand by holding a paper before his face. He will not be in the way of his fellow riders, for when the car swerves they will swerve together. Passengers desiring to gain the exit may push those in their way to one side with little or no effort, while the strap hanger may raise both feet from the ground floor and stand in midair to protect his toes from those pushing by him. If the possessor of one of these straps happens to be a traveling man or a suburbanite he may make use of the wristlet as a grip carrier.

SIDE LIGHTS on the CIRCUS BUSINESS

By D. W. WATT
Former Manager Burr Robbins and Later Treasurer of Adam Forepaugh Circuses.

It was back in the middle seventies that a young man by the name of Mike Toben entered the employ of Hodge & Buchholz in this city. It was there that young Toben started to learn the blacksmith trade, and the part that pertained to him was the ironing of fine carriages and cages for the Burr Robbins circus. It was not long until young Toben was considered one of the best workmen in the country in his line of work, and his services were in demand wherever he was known.

In the winter of 1881-82 Burr Robbins sold his show to two men named Myers and Shorb, who changed the name to the "Big United States Show" and immediately commenced building new cages and remodeling the show for the coming year. It was in this capacity that young Toben made himself famous in his line of work, and as these men were now in the business and had to have a blacksmith with the show during the summer season, the only man that seemed to look good to them was Mike Toben. They immediately commenced talking to him and asked him to travel with them during the season of 1882, to look after all the blacksmith work that was necessary to be done with the show. The idea was a new one to young Toben, who for some time did not look with favor upon the idea of traveling with the circus, but the salary offered him was more than he was receiving, and all his expenses were to be paid while on the road. While Herman Buchholz, manager of the carriage works here, was anxious to keep young Toben, yet he said who knew Mike, if you think you would rather put in the winter with the show, go ahead and your position will be open to you any time when you see fit to return. The show left here the latter part of April and started southeast, expecting to travel through the eastern country most of the season, but encountered bad weather during the early part of the season and along about the middle of July went to Louisville, Ky., where it disbanded, and Burr Robbins, who had a mortgage on it, stepped in and took charge of it.

The Adam Forepaugh show, which I was with that season, opened at the same time in Cincinnati, O., for a four days' engagement, and Burr Robbins, after taking charge of the "Big United States Show," started to remodel it and started out for himself with a wagon show. He had no one connected with the show, and he was much about it as I did, and shortly after our arrival in Cincinnati with the Forepaugh show a messenger boy came to the ticket wagon and handed me a letter which he said he wanted me to answer right away. It was from Burr Robbins, who was stopping at a hotel there, and wanted me to come and see him and learn if it would be possible for me to leave the Forepaugh show there and help him to take on his old show; to sign a contract for the next season, and that he would give me more money than I ever received in the show business. I simply answered the letter, saying I would meet him at the hotel at 3 o'clock in the afternoon and talk it over. As soon as the Chicago papers announced the failure of the show at Louisville, Herman Buchholz telegraphed Mike Toben to come to Janesville, at once, as they were in need of his services. He came back and took up his old position, and a little later left the employ of Hodge & Buchholz and entered the employ of the late Adam Wilson, on River street. Some time later he left the Wilson shop and he and a son of Mr. Wilson went west and finally settled in Huron, S. D., where they established themselves in business. From that time on Mike Toben's business grew rapidly, later buying young Wilson's share in the business. Mike Toben not only established a good business, but has always been one of the prominent men of the west, having been elected to the state senate several times, and for some years has been one of the directors of the Dakota state fair.

Last week Mr. Toben attended the cattle show in Chicago, and Thursday evening came to Janesville to spend a few days with relatives and friends of his boyhood days. About the time Mr. Toben left Janesville he married Miss Emma Higgins of this city, a sister of Albert Higgins of the town of Harmony.

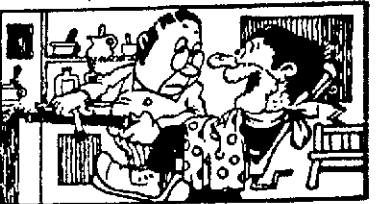

After spending many years of his life in Janesville, yet the first one he inquired about was his old friend in the circus business. He said the circus had left the greatest impression on his mind of anything he had ever known. When I asked him why he did not stick to the circus business he simply smiled and said: "Dave, in my line of work there did not seem to be much of a future in it, and yet I never spent a pleasant summer in my life than I did with the show, where I met so many nice people. You recollect George Furman and his wife, Georgia; these people you know had charge of all the privileges, including the cook tent, and many times Mrs. Furman would come around when I was eating breakfast and say, 'Well, Mike, how is the breakfast this morning?' Every one connected with the show was so nice to me that it seemed like one big family, one always ready to help the other. Never since my few months in the circus business have I missed a show that came within a reasonable distance of Huron.

Mr. Toben is like thousands of others who have traveled in the circus business, whether for a few months or a few years; it is a rule left a lasting impression on them that they never could forget. And even back in the days of the wagon show, when it was work all day and travel all night, many people followed the business year after year. They went through hardships that they would not think of going through in any other line of work, usually in the spring and late fall, when cold rains and deep mud made it almost impossible to get from town to town and arrive in time to give two performances.

You would think after one experience of this kind it would be the last season many of the men would continue in this line of work, and yet the next spring, long before time for starting out, 90 per cent of them, known as "old timers," would always be on hand. It could not have been the music or the excitement or the travel that lured them to the business, for if the music was ever so near and the playing ever so loud, the average person connected with the show never seemed to hear it, and yet for the excitement to them it meant nothing. It was their work that they took an interest in, and that was all they thought of. In the circus business, with the average people, there is always something to lure them back for another year. Many times in bad weather and when there was plenty of hard work, you would hear many of the old timers say, "There is no use of talking, this will be my last season in the business." But the following spring almost every man would show up at the ticket wagon and ask me to put them on the pay roll for another season. With the Barnum & Bailey and the Ringling Brothers' circuses today there are many old timers that have spent more than half their lives in the business. It will not be long after the first of January that these men will commence to get ready for the coming season at the winter quarters of these shows.

The Thirteenth Commandment

By RUPERT HUGHES

Copyright by Harper & Brothers

Wimburn was the victim of an onset of that delirium known as love at first sight. He was at the right age, and he found something exotically captivating in this strange girl in the strange city. He was poisoned with love, and his opinion of Daphne was unaccountably fantastic. No one in the world equaled her. No one ever had equaled her or could equal her in any future ever.

Spring and love are the perennial miracles, always new, always amazing. It was springtime in Wimburn's years and in the calendar of the world; and countless other youth of mankind, animal kind, bird and fish kind, flowers and fruit trees, and perhaps of chemicals in the ground were feeling the same mania.

Daphne's cordiality was at first merely the hospitable warmth of her unusually cordial community. But she caught the fever from Wimburn and decided that he was the final word in human evolution.

They began to dread the society of others, to resent the existence of a squatter population on their private planet. The world was too much with them. The little car was transparent. Even at night etiquette required them to light it up within.

Wimburn did not return to New York so soon as he expected. It seemed impossible to uproot himself from that pleasant soil. One afternoon when he had already overstayed his welcome Daphne and he were riding in the little car through the outer suburb known as Shaker Heights—a section rapidly evolving from a sleepy religious community to a swarm of city residences.

The late afternoon moon had risen in a sky still rosy with the afterglow of sunset. The air was marmalade with longing.

PIMPLY? WELL, DON'T BE

People Notice It. Drive Them Off with Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

A pimply face will not embarrass you much longer if you get a package of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The skin should begin to clear after you have taken the tablets a few nights.

Clear the blood, bowels and liver with Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the successful substitute for calomel; there's no sickness or pain after taking them. Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do what calomel does, and just as effectively, but their action is gentle and safe instead of severe and irritating.

No one who takes Olive Tablets is ever cured with a "dark brown taste," a bad breath, a dull, listless, "no good" feeling, constipation, torpid liver, bad disposition or pimply face.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color.

Dr. Edwards spent years among patients afflicted with liver and bowel complaints, and Olive Tablets are the immensely effective result.

Take one or two nightly for a week. See how much better you feel and look. 10c and 25c per box. All druggists.

WORSE THAN GAS

Kidney disease is no respecter of persons. It is most common in old folks. In most cases the victim is warned of the approaching danger. Nerve twinges, back, head, and joint pains, insomnia, lame back, lumbago, sciatica, rheumatism, pain in the loins and lower abdomen, etc., are all indications of trouble with the kidneys.

Such a condition appears to you will almost certainly find quick relief in GOLD MEDAL Bile Beans or CAPSULES.

This famous old remedy has stood the test for two hundred years in helping mankind to overcome kidney disease. It is prepared direct from the home laboratories in England, and may be had at almost every drug store. If it does not relieve you, be sure to get the genuine GOLD MEDAL Brand. In sealed packages, three sizes.

Freed From the Physic Habit

"I had stomach trouble and constipation very bad for a long time. Tried everything, but kept getting worse. I could hardly eat anything and my bowels wouldn't move unless I took a physic every day. I have to support myself and two children, yet I was not able to work."

"The first bottle of Milk Emulsion did wonders for me, and I have continued to use it. I feel better and can now work every day. I have a good appetite, my stomach trouble has left me, and my bowels are regular."

"Mrs. Mary Widner, 102 S. Court St., Sioux City, Iowa."

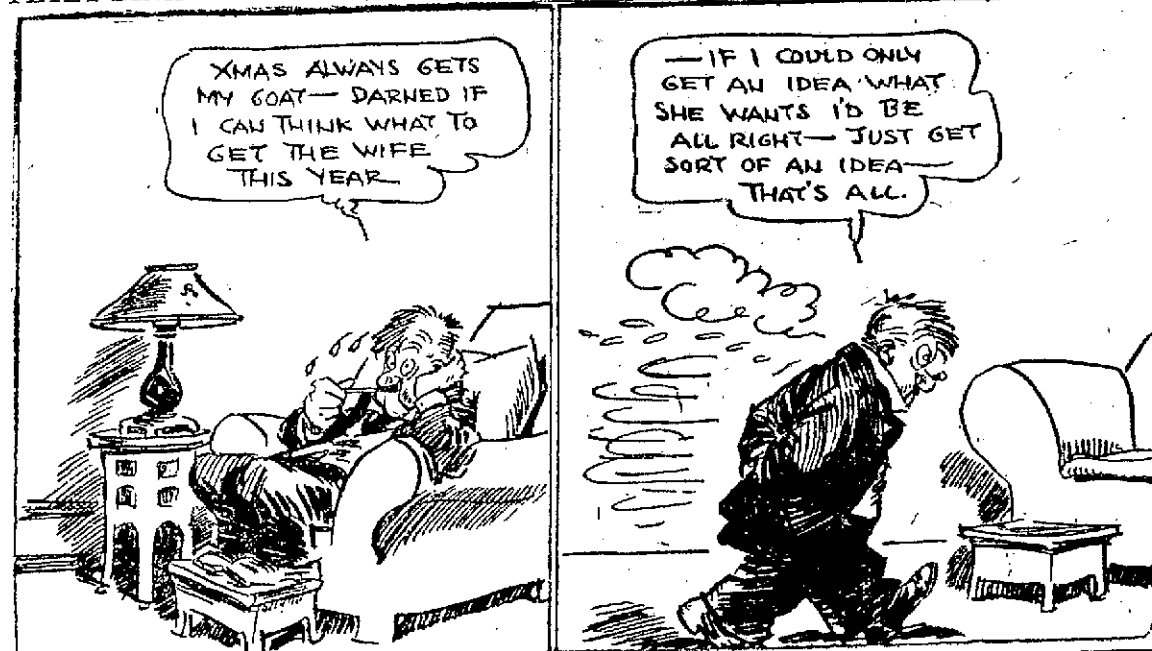

Mrs. Widner found out that all sufferers should know that pills, salts and physics do not cure constipation, but usually make it worse. A pleasant, nutritive food and a corrective medicine, it restores healthy, natural bowel action, driving away all need of pills and salts, and promoting regularity.

Physic is a dangerous habit, and quickly puts the digestive organs in shape to assimilate food. As a builder of flesh and strength, Milk Emulsion is strongly recommended to run-down and nervous people, and it has cured many cases of chronic constipation, and tuberculosis of the lungs. Chronic constipation is a dangerous habit, and should be promptly relieved—usually in one day.

This is the only solid emulsion made, and no pills or salts are used. It is a spoon-like ice cream. A truly wonderful medicine for weak, sickly children.

No matter how severe your case, you are urged to try Milk Emulsion under this guarantee. Take six bottles and if you are not satisfied to directions and if not satisfied with the results, your money will be promptly refunded. The Milk Emulsion Co., Terre Haute, Ind. Sold and guaranteed by J. P. Baker.

PETEY DINK—NOW PETEY'S GOT 'EM ALL GUESSING.

Suddenly Wimburn cried aloud, to his own surprise and hers, "Daphne! Miss Kip! I can't stand everything, you know! I'm only human, after all."

"What's the matter?" she asked in prosaic phrase but with a poetic flutter of breath.

"I love you, d—n it!—pardon me, but I'm infernally in love with you, I'm tormented. I came here on business, and instead of my finishing it you've finished me. I'm two days overdue in New York and I've had to lie to the office to explain why. And all I can think of now is that I'd rather resign and starve to death than go back and leave you here."

"Honestly?" she barely breathed.

"Desperately!" he moaned. "What's to become of me?"

"You'd better go back, I suppose. You'll soon get over it and find something else to love."

"There's nobody else in the world worth loving. I'd die if I gave you up! I'd simply die."

He went on with aching anxiety: "Could you care for me just a little? If you could love me or just promise to try to, I could face my exile for a while. Do you think you could love me over?"

She dropped her chin on her breast and sighed.

"I guess I do now."

The miraculous felicity of this situation overwhelmed them both. He clutched her in his arms and she flung hers about him, forgetting entirely the steering wheel. The neglected little car promptly scuttled off the road, crossed a gutter into a vacant lot, scooped up "For Sale" sign, and was about to tip over into an excavation when Daphne looked up long enough to shut off the power. Then in a blind rapture she returned to where she belonged—his embrace.

Soon she was assailed with fears for the credibility of this wondrous work, and when he said:

"When shall we announce our engagement?" she protested:

"Oh, not till we are sure."

"I'm sure now."

"But we must be terribly sure. It's such a dangerous thing, getting married. So many people who think they love each other find out their mistake too late. You don't know me very well."

"You mean you don't know me very well."

"I'm not afraid of you, but for you. I'd hate to disappoint you, and I don't really amount to much. I can't do anything except gad around; and you'd tire of me."

"Not in this world—nor in the next."

"It's darling of you to say it, and you think you mean it now. But—"

"I know it, Daphne, honey, now and forever. I don't want anybody but you. Life won't be life without you. You've promised to be my wife. I hold you to your promise."

"All right." It was exceedingly satisfying to surrender her soul into his keeping. She had reached harbor already after so brief and placid a voyage.

He ended a long, cozy silence with the surprising remark, "I suppose I ought to ask your parents' consent."

The daughter of the twentieth century laughed: "Parents' consent! You do read a lot of ancient literature, don't you?"

"Still I imagine we'd better break it to 'em."

"You leave it to me to break it to 'em. They'll be glad enough to get me off their hands."

"I'll never believe that."

When they reached her home it was late and his hotel was so far that, since he would be spending his last evening with her, anyway, she asked him to stay to dinner.

She broke that news to her parents, and it caused them acute distress. Her father and her mother were deep in the battle that always broke out between them when the monthly bills arrived. Daphne was so used to this that she hardly noticed it.

After dinner the parents retired to the living room to read and sew and mumble over their mutual grievances, while Daphne and Wimburn sat and the piazza which the moon turned into a blue portico of mystic spell.

"Still I imagine we'd better break it to 'em."

CHAPTER III

The next morning Wimburn woke from dreams of bliss to the realization that his hotel bill would require all of his funds, except enough for the porter's tip and a few odd dollars.

He could not buy Daphne an engagement ring with a few odd dollars, and he was afraid to leave her without the brand of possession on her finger.

But how was he to come at the necessary sum? He could not decently ask the firm he was dealing with to lend him money. He might have asked it to cash a check on his bank, but his account was at the irreducible minimum.

After an hour or two of meditation he determined to board a jeweler in his hair and try to coax him into the extension of credit.

He loitered in front of several windows, staring at the glittering pebbles on the velvet benches till he found a tiny gem that he thought might feebly represent his exquisite adoration. He went in and asked the price. An eager salesman peered at the very small tag and announced the very large price—$185. It was not much for a solitaire, but it was too much for that bachelor.

He clung to the counter for support and in a husky tone asked for the credit man. He was escorted to a barred window where a very sane old person gazed out at people insane enough to buy jewelry. Mr. Gassett had a look of hospitality toward cash and of shyness toward credit.

Wimburn hemmed and blushed and swallowed hard. With the plausibility of a pickpocket he murmured as he pushed a card across the glass sill:

"I am Mr. Clay Wimburn of New York city. I have been out here closing up an important deal for my firm with one of your big mills. I happened to see a little ring in your window—rather pretty little thing. Took a fancy to it. Had half a mind to buy it. But rather short of cash and—"

Mr. Gassett waited with patience. Clay went on: "I have no right to ask you to give me credit. But I'm very anxious to leave the ring here."

"Leave it here! I thought you wanted to buy it!"

"Of course! I want to leave it on the finger of a young lady."

"Oh," said Mr. Gassett, to whom ladies' fingers were an important market.

Finally he said: "I don't suppose you would care to tell me who your fiancée is. That might make a difference."

"Why shouldn't I tell you? I'm certainly not ashamed to. I have the honor to be engaged to Miss Daphne Kip."

Mr. Gassett smiled. "Not old Wesley Kip's girl?"

"I believe I did hear Miss Kip call her father Wesley."

"Well, I'd like to help Wes out. I suppose I might take a chance. Do you think you can pay for the ring in ninety days?"

"Easily!"

Wimburn would have promised to tear down the world and rebuild it in ninety days.

"I shall have to add a little to the price for the risk and the accommodation."

"Anything you like," said Clay magnificently.

"Call it two hundred dollars."

"Certainly!" One could hardly haggle over an engagement ring.

"I'll ask you to sign a little document."

"With pleasure."

He would have signed an agreement to surrender a pound of his flesh.

Clay hurried out to find Daphne and fasten on her the glittering gyve.

He might have taken further alarm from the immense and greedy rapture Daphne revealed at the sight of the glittering drop set in the golden circle. Women are all misers when it comes to diamonds.

Wimburn noted only the joy the bauble gave to Daphne, and the pretty submission with which she poked out her slender finger and slid it into the fether. He felt that the kiss of affiance was worth years of hard labor.

It was hard and bitter to read their cemented hearts in twain, but he had to go at last. She floated him to the station in the little car and waved him through the iron palings. She was unimaginedly precious and pitiful as she stood there, and he wanted to blubber when the vestibule was slammed shut and the train slid out of the station like a merciless snake.

DON'T SUFFER WITH NEURALGIA

Use Soothing Musterole

When those sharp pains go shooting through your head, when your skull seems as if it would split, just rub a little Musterole on your temples and neck. It draws out the inflammation, soothes away the pain, usually giving quick relief. Musterole is a clean, white ointment, made with oil of mustard. Better than a mustard plaster and does not blister. Many doctors and nurses frankly recommend Musterole for sore throat, bronchitis, croup, stiff neck, asthma, neuralgia, congestion, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, pains and aches of the back or joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frost-bites—colds of the chest (it often prevents pneumonia). It is always dependable.

He vowed that he would work with the strength of ten and pile up a fortune in the bank for her. But first he must pile up enough to pay for that solitaire.

Clay wrote Daphne a fat letter every day. He usually sneaked it in among his business correspondence and took great pains that it should never miss the Lake Shore limited at five-thirty in the afternoon. A special-delivery stamp put the letter in Daphne's hands every next forenoon.

But after the letter had gone he usually remembered that he had omitted to include some message of frightfully important urgency. So he had to send her every night a night letter, and frequently of mornings he must fire off a day letter. These cost only sixty cents apiece, but often he had to send them in double or triple length.

For occasions where time was yet more unendurable there was the telephone—a pittance of three dollars and twenty-five cents for the first three minutes, and a dollar and five cents for each additional minute or fraction thereof, would bring his lips to Daphne's ear.

Tales of the Friendly Forest

Round and round the Mill Wheel turns. All the winter through. It was bound with icy chains. Till the South Wind blew. Then it started off one morn. To grind the farmer's yellow corn.

Uncle Bullfrog looked about him. He was seated again on the old log catching flies for breakfast. All through the cold winter he had slept the soft mud at the bottom of the Old Mill Pond, but now, with Mr. Happy Sun shining down so warm and bright from the big blue sky, the old gentleman from mud put his little legs and swam up to sit once more in his accustomed place.

But goodness me! How thin he felt. Why, his white waistcoat was all wrinkles and his pantaloons bagged dreadfully. Yes, sir. They looked much too big for his long, thin legs, and Uncle Bullfrog set to work to change his many flies as he could so as to be nice and fat and jolly before summer came.

Tommy Turtle, too, had come up from the soft mud. He knew it was time to go about for Gentle Spring was way of telling all the little people of the Friendly Forest and the Pleasant Meadow just when it's time to wake up and get out in the warm sunshine.

And while Uncle Bullfrog sat quietly catching flies and Tommy Turtle crawled up the bank, Billy Bunny hopped up and said:

"Hello, fellow! There isn't much snow anywhere to be seen, and the meadow is green."

Say, Uncle Bullfrog, out there on your log.

Are you glad it is spring, ting-a-ling, ting-a-ling?"

"There, you've gone and made me lose a fly," said the old gentleman. "But never mind, I'm glad to see you, little rabbit, and Uncle Bullfrog went 'Ker-dunk, der-chunk,' and wiped his spectacles with his handkerchief."

And just then from a little pool close to the Big Mill Pond came the sound of voices. "What's that?" thought the little rabbit, and he hopped over the marshy ground and looked into the little pool. And what do you think he saw? Why, a lot of dark spots on the water, and each little dark spot was singing away, "Hello, dear old Billy Bunny, we're so surprised that he leaned way over the water, and then the little dark spots disappeared, and all that the little rabbit could see were funny little forms swimming away under the water."

"Ha, ha!" laughed Uncle Bullfrog. "They are little singing toads. Mr. Toad's grandchild."

And the little rabbit was so surprised that he said nothing. And then Uncle Bullfrog spoke again.

"When you come next time I'll show you some little tadpoles—they are cousins of mine, you know."

Janesville, a City of Real People

Some towns are cold as a fish market in January---you don't know why. They're just COLD, that's all---and you never feel at ease in them.

Not so, Janesville.

Janesville radiates WARMTH, and GOOD-WILL---it is full of real FELLOWS, who are aware that they live in the best land on earth---and in one of the BEST TOWNS on earth---and want YOU to be aware of it too.

Janesville is populated by OPTOMISTS.

Elbert Hubbard defined the optomist, as a man that's like a bear that HIBERNATES--and dines off its ADIPOSE.

Hubbard's definition doesn't FIT the Janesville type of optomist. He refuses to lie DORMANT any part of the time. He isn't satisfied to live off the fat put on in PREVIOUS years---he's up and around, REACHING for BUSINESS, all the TIME.

He smiles, goes early to WORK, and when there's an opportunity to ACCOMMODATE somebody--is willing to STAY LATE.

He isn't letting any GRASS grow under his feet--he LIVES by SERVING--and he wants to serve YOU!

Do your BUYING in Janesville. Why don't you? Give him a CHANCE to deliver the GOODS! C'MON!

Janesville's BUSINESS men, PROFESSIONAL men, ALL CLASSES of men, are ready to take you in hand, are prepared to supply your wants, and to give you a good run for your money.

Years ago, a leading doctor over here, on request of our local business men, PRESCRIBED A FORMULA for this community, that's kept it HEALTHY ever since.

The formula is this:

"The grouch gets nothing but a cold in the HEAD, keep sweet!"

Everybody in Janesville takes a swig of Doc's dope regularly every day before going to business---strangers coming here to trade, notice it the minute they get inside the line. Awfully easy town to come to, once you form the habit.

Hook up, or crank up, and come over! We'll be LOOKING for YOU!

A Gift That Will Please the Housekeeper

A Kitchen Cabinet is the gift of all gifts for the woman who does her own work. Bear that in mind, Mr. Married Man—you who come home day after day to find your wife completely fagged out—Irritable, too, perhaps. (You would be, too, if you had to spend most of your day in the kitchen tread-mill.)

Do you want to see a new light come into those tired eyes? Wouldn't it gladden your heart to see your wife growing younger and happier day by day? Then give her the best of medicines for tired nerves and body—a Kitchen Cabinet. It will save miles of weary steps about the kitchen every week, and make cooking seem like play, for "she rests while she works." And you can put this modern Wonder Worker into her kitchen for only

AMERICANS WILL REACH RHINE TODAY

(BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS.)

With the American Army of Occupation, Dec. 12, (By Courier).—The American army of occupation is scheduled to cross the Rhine river tomorrow to patrol new German territory for a depth of thirty kilometers. The crossing which will take several days, will be made from Boppard, Engers, El Gouchhausen and Coblenz. The Americans will cross on the Third Commandment. Illustrated song service. Songs sung by the congregation from the screen. Illustrations by the choir.

The first division units reached Coblenz yesterday and the thirty-second division, made up of Michigan and Wisconsin troops, arrived at the bank of the Rhine, Tuesday with other units of the third army of occupation.

During the last 24 hours, two incidents occurred in Coblenz which indicated the suppressed hatred manifested toward the Americans. The first incident was when German women dropped empty bottles from a third story window, intending to hit a passing soldier. One of the bottles missed the soldier by less than a foot.

The second incident happened in a large cafe of the city where two American officers occupied a booth. Shortly after the officers' entrance, four Coblenz business men selected a booth adjoining the Americans, though there were many others unoccupied. A violinist, a native of Holland, then played one American piece and four German selections.

Because the American music was played, a German wine merchant upbraided the violinist and demanded that all German pieces be played. The violinist endeavored to explain, but the late merchant used such insulting allusions to the English and Americans that the Yankee officers adjourned to the public room of the cafe. There the cafe proprietor, whose name was Wilhelm Walts, apologized for the incident.

Many of the German people at Coblenz, finding that the American troops are liberal in their treatment of them, children are affrighted and the adults are openly antagonistic. All American troops, whether on guard duty or not, have been ordered to carry arms. The bottle throwing incident was the only case so far of attempted violence.

Situation in Hand.

Neenah—Despite many new cases of influenza daily, the health authorities believe that with the proper operation of the public situation will remain well in hand.

THE GIFT

Not for Christmas alone--Not for just one member of the family

A NASH SIX

will bring happiness and health to the entire family for many years to come.

When you stop to consider that your Nash Six is the family's car—that each and every one of you will use and enjoy it—that it serves the double purpose of providing enjoyment, and a quick locomotion when business requires—that the life of a Nash Six is not for one year or for two years, but for five years or more—you should figure its cost on this basis.

The price of the car, divided by the number of members in the family, divided by the number of years that it will serve you

SURE YOU CAN AFFORD ONE

Nash scientific engineering has made the Nash Six practically vibrationless. This is largely due to the well thought out and carefully balanced construction of its Nash Perfected Valve-in-Head Motor.

One of the many reasons why you will like the Nash Six is that throughout its entire design and construction the latest and most approved engineering principles are used.

And, after all, it is good performance that counts—good performance that keeps a man happy and satisfied with his car.

We feel sure that Nash Six performance will please you and keep you pleased.

DAVIS BROS.

The limited number of Nash Sixes now available has further increased the already large, nation-wide demand which existed for this practical car. Its ability to take men from place to place, quickly, comfortably and at low cost, has been proved by owners all over the country.

Fortunately we have a few now available for immediate buyers.

ELECT LEO POWERS AS FOOTBALL CAPTAIN

Leo Powers, half back for the past two years, on the Janesville High School football team, was elected captain of next year's team, at a banquet held at the high school, last evening. Powers has been the star of the school back field, and last year had the honor of making the first play of the season, and this year had the honor of making the first touchdown. The last few games of the season, he played the position of fullback, spraking being shifted to half.

The banquet was a huge success in every manner, and one long to be remembered by all those who attended. The affair was a co-ed and beside the young people that attended, several members of the faculty were present. Supper was served at seven o'clock in the domestic science department immediately after which there was a program.

Mr. Phelps, Boy's Secretary of the Y. M. C. A. acted as toastmaster. He was introduced by Mr. Zimmerman, manager of the team. Mr. Phelps first called on Mr. Bassford, principal of the school, who in a few words told of the value of the football to the high school boy.

The much coveted "J's" were then presented to seventeen players, who after receiving the letters made suitable replies. The following men were given their "J's": Nizim, Powers, Sprackling, Kober, Alter, Scobie, Allen, Crowley, Francis, Roy, East, Dugan, Blackie, Gervie, McDermott, Newman and Hanson.

J. P. Craig, coach of the team, was out of town, but arrived near the end of the evening. After the program, the members of the team held a short session, at which they elected next year's captain. After the election of the captain, the remainder of the evening was spent in dancing in the gym.

MOOSE WIN FROM EAGLES IN GAME

The Moose No. 1 team won from the Eagle lodge team last evening by 319 plus. Kressin rolled high score for the Moose with 269, and Saxby for the Eagles with 190.

The light harness racing game weathered the war period in good shape, according to reports.

I ran into Winfield Kinnaird, secretary of the Cleveland organization in the Grand Circuit, and Tedd H. Kline, one of the best posted horsemen in the business, the other day, and both were bubbling over with enthusiasm. Kinnaird, starting out with his usual "Golly, Ned!"

"The circuit went through the war with colors flying. We look for the biggest season ever next year. The circuits are in good shape. No changes in the makeup of the circuit are expected, unless Detroit should re-enter. There is some talk of that."

The American Association of Fatiged and Exhausted is to meet soon and is planning on a banner year in 1919," continued Kline.

"The past two seasons in the Grand Circuit were the most successful in many respects in the game's history," said Kline.

The prediction is freely made during the winter summer that baseball, when resumed would add many players who showed to advantage in service games as members of army or navy teams is already being fulfilled.

In the safety of the Yankees' office, a contract bearing the name of John Jones. The name means nothing in particular to the New York baseball fan, but those who followed the diamond performances of Johnny Jones, infielder of the Great Lakes naval station baseball team last summer will aver that Huggins has landed a coming star.

Jones has played second and third bases, also shortstop, and has shown up very strongly in all positions. He is a native of St. Louis, and it develops now that several major league clubs have been angling for his services.

Scout Bob Connelly of the Yankees had seen Jones in action before he entered the navy, but it was while a member of the service team that Jones developed sufficiently to warrant a trial in the majors. Connelly

CHIROPRACTIC FOR INFLUENZA

Subjected to cold or exposure or to the intense heat of a fevered condition, muscles and ligaments holding vertebrae in place, contract and a SUBLUXATION occurs. This shuts off nerve force or "vital energy" and the inevitable happens. The tissues involved in that region cannot get mental impulses from the brain and inco-ordination or "Disease" results. Add to the acute subluxation, received at this particular time, a chronic subluxation, say at "Lung Place" (the place in the spine where nerves emit which supply the lung tissue) and that which was merely a cold or influenza to begin with, runs quickly in Bronchitis or Pneumonia. An Adjustment of the subluxations involving nerves leading to the bronchial tubes and lungs, brings about restoration of vital energy to these parts in other words, allows "Nature" to get to work. And Nature is the universal, all powerful Healer. All she asks is a chance to do her work, over UNIMPINGED nerves. Consultation and Special Analysis Free.

THE ART OF CALLING DUCKS.

By R. P. Holland.

Many and diversified are the opinions of duck shooters as to the merits of a duck call, regardless of how it is made or who blows it. Some insist that at best it is a detriment, while you find others who think a good call is impossible without a call in the blind.

A friend of mine who knows the duck game from A to Z will finally admit when he becomes tired of hearing me argue the question, that occasionally a call will attract their attention, thereby gaining you a shot that otherwise would have been lost. And still I have had this same fellow when in a blind with me and a bunch of old wise mallards were circling, trying to make up their minds whether or not to run the risk, nudge me in the side with his elbow and whisper, "Talk to 'em." "Talk to 'em!" then when they had swung back to the call and were making their last circle, some of them with their hanging, he would sink his fingers into my leg as though trying to shut off the call too keep from scaring them.

Personally, I would just as soon go shooting without the gun as without the call. To me there is no comparison in sitting in a blind with everything quiet while a bunch of ducks come in with the call in action. In the first place every time the flock is located with both those if you happen to move a trifle one of them is sure to see you.

There is absolutely no question but that when properly used a call is of the greatest benefit to the man shooting over decoys. Go down around Big Lake, Arkansas; the lower south Mississippi; the marshes along the south coast; you have made their living shooting wild fowl, and running from the upper pocket of their coats, they say, "You can't be in the blind, do the same thing. The chances are you have seen and heard an expert."

Go out in a blind with one of these old chaps and hear him work on a bunch of mallards. You will be converted right there, but remember it has taken him years to acquire this degree of skill. You can't take the place of the duck call in it is of some advantage in hunting ducks.
